How do you picture God in prayer?

What's your favorite image of God in prayer? By that I mean: when you close your eyes to pray, who or what do you think of? For many people, God is a kind of presence, beside them, or around them, or above them. One terrific way to start your prayer comes from St. Ignatius Loyola, founder of the Jesuits. He says that before we begin to pray we should look at the place in which we're going to be praying—a chair, a place on the floor, a bed, a church pew—and imagine God looking at us there. For a whole minute. After you do that, you'll find that when you finally sit down, or lie down or kneel down, having imagined God looking at you, it really deepens your prayer. It reminds you who is with you. Some people like to think of Jesus with them while they pray, perhaps sitting next to them, or in a chair across the room. One young Jesuit, who was a pretty outdoorsy type, told me that he likes to think of Jesus and him sitting across a campfire from one another, just talking. A few years ago, on a pilgrimage to the Holy Land, I found a picnic bench I liked to pray at, right by the Sea of Galilee. So that's where I return to pray sometimes, in my mind. Whatever image of God you have in prayer is fine. Because there's no one better than the other. Just trust that whatever image you use—God will meet you there. (James Martin, S.J.)

Lorie's Music Notes

In John's gospel today, we hear the familiar story of the loaves and fishes. Though the crowd was 5,000 strong, there was plenty to nourish all. Jesus provided a "table of plenty" to the crowd who came to seek him. In this gospel story, as well as the first reading from the Second Book of Kings, the same divine hand feeds and satisfies.

These individuals are released to society without basic necessary resources to help rebuild their lives. There is a flyer enclosed in the St. Anthony bulletins with a list of supplies needed on the back side. Please place your donations in the bins marked "Backpack Drive" located in the back of the church. If you have any questions, please call Mary Ellen O'Farrell at 304-444-6587.

CCWV: Back to School Supplies Drive

Catholic Charities West Virginia needs your help collecting school supplies for students in need. Just as crafts people require the proper tools to complete their work, our children need basic school supplies to succeed. Please place backpacks, pencils, crayons, pens, lined paper, notebooks, calculators, rulers, etc. in the container located in the gathering area during the week of August 5 -11. They will be picked up the following week and distributed to schools in our service area.

For more information about RCIA and the Catholic faith, please call Father Tijo at 304-280-4990 or email him at tgeorge@dwc.org.
