A Family Perspective by Bud Ozar

Today’s gospel reminds us that once we set our “hand to the plow” of parenting and marriage, “we cannot look back.” This is what commitment means: we have said YES to what was, what is, and to what can be.

Extraordinary Jubilee of Mercy

We are so often like the people in the Gospel, giving excuses to why we can’t follow Jesus, why we can’t be Christian in our daily lives. If we took more time focusing on the gift of our faith, praying each day, our lives would change dramatically. But this same behavior isn’t found often in the rest of our lives. Whether it is our job, or a sport, or something else important to us, we give up free time, weekends, evenings, days, and weeks to dedicate more time to become stronger and more successful. However, the same needs to be true with our faith. If we want to be holy (which should be the goal of everyone), then we need to work at it. We have to practice holiness daily. Luckily, God shows mercy on us and gives us the grace to move forward in mission! We must set aside our excuses. In doing so, we will help lead others, with ourselves, to a more complete and full life eternal. How can you allow the mercy of God to empower you to mission? To ignore your weaknesses and excuses? How do you use prayer to build your strength to fight each day?

LORIE'S MUSIC NOTES

In today's Old Testament reading from the First Book of Kings, Elijah was told by God to anoint Elisha as the prophet to succeed him. Elijah threw his cloak over Elisha, who almost immediately left to follow Elijah. In Luke's Gospel, Jesus says "Follow me." Our Offertory song shares this same message: "Will you come and follow me if I but call your name?"
